The right first impression inevitably leads to seconds.

A happy customer is a return customer. And little things like the right condiment can make a big difference. Consider that according to research*:

2 times as many people believe that they have a more favorable impression of a restaurant if Heinz® Ketchup is on the table.

No one grows ketchup like Heinz. That's because every red, ripe tomato in every bottle is grown only from Heinz seeds. It's what helps us deliver the uniquely thick, rich flavor that America loves.

NEW YORK CITY / LONG ISLAND REGION

Foodservice Industry Suppliers Guide is published by Stevens Publishing Company in cooperation with the New York State Restaurant Association. This reference is designed to serve as a source book for restaurants and other foodservice establishments in the Greater New York City Market, including all the boroughs, Westchester, Rockland, Long Island, and parts of Northern New Jersey.

Every effort has been made to make this book as complete as possible, but the primary responsibility for inclusion in this book rests with industry suppliers. Though listings are FREE, suppliers must request inclusion by submitting an official FREE listing form that is available on the FSIS Guide website at: www.spcnetwork.com/food. Suppliers can also call Stevens Publishing Company to request a free Listing Form via fax.

Considering the huge job involved in compiling industry data, some reputable suppliers may have missed inclusion in this year's edition. We apologize for this, and urge any and all suppliers to please submit their official form so they are included in next year's edition.

Special thanks to the New York State Restaurant Association New York City Chapter, for its cooperation and support in bringing this Directory to the membership.

Dear Foodservice Professional,

The Greater New York City Chapters of the New York State Restaurant Association are proud and pleased to collaborate with the Stevens Publishing Co. in presenting this 2011 edition of the FOODSERVICE INDUSTRY SUPPLIERS GUIDE.

The Guide is designed as a reference resource for foodservice executives and business owners. You are urged to keep this listing of companies that supply goods and services to our industry at your fingertips.

This is just one of the many ways that the New York State Restaurant Association works to serve the restaurant industry and its suppliers.

We hope you will use it frequently and that it proves to be useful to your operations.

The New York State Restaurant Association

We're pleased to refer to New York City as the Restaurant Capital of the World. It is also one of the toughest cities in the world in which to operate a foodservice establishment. Now, more than ever, foodservice businesses are being challenged on many fronts. Rents, insurance, taxes, fees and fines are constantly being raised. New laws and regulations affecting our industry have been proposed. To best meet these challenges, we need to band together in support of our common goals.

There is strength in numbers.

We need restaurateurs and suppliers, large and small, to support our industry!

To find out how you can get involved, call NYSRA at 212-398-9160 or email AndrewR@nysra.net.

The New York State Restaurant Association Educational Foundation was established in 1999 to enhance the Association's ability to provide training opportunities for those currently in the hospitality industry and to encourage others to choose the industry as a career. Its mission is to nurture and encourage America's youth who seek careers in the foodservice industry and provide them with the tools to realize their dreams through education, leadership and interaction with industry leaders.

ProStart® is a nationally recognized program for high school Juniors and Seniors that incorporate classroom instruction along with on-the-job work experience. The NYSRA Educational Foundation now sponsors ProStart in 49 High Schools throughout New York State.

ServSafe Food Safety Training offers the highest standard in training and certification for managers. ServSafe is our industry's premier food training solution. In New York City, NYSRA's ServSafe training class is approved as preparation for the NYC's Foodhandlers Certificate Examination.

ServSafe Alcohol raises the bar on responsible alcohol service training. The program offers a flexible, real-world training solution, with practical knowledge and resources. Many insurance companies require this type of training in order to renew liquor liability coverage.

Email Marketing The Key to Your Success

- Effective and Affordable: Email marketing is one of the most effective and affordable ways for your restaurant to reach its customers. It lets you target exactly who you want to reach, and as often as you like, with engaging email newsletters, money saving email promotions and an easy-to-setup Birthday Club.
- New Potential Customers: Your business will reach potential new customers through valuable referrals, because email communications are so easy for your customers to pass along to friends and family.
- A Perfect Fit: Email marketing is a perfect fit for a small business like yours. It doesn't take a lot of your time, and it doesn't cost that much. In fact, you can pay for it with your food & beverage.

We'll help you start, grow and maintain your list of contacts -- no technical expertise needed. We'll design a complete program to fit your needs. Now is the time to take action.

If you're open to new ideas now is the time to take action!

Lower Your Recruitment
Costs and Decrease
Your Turnover Rate...at
No Cost to You!!

We can refer applicants who are qualified and motivated to perform a wide variety of food service jobs for your restaurant. You can help people with intellectual and developmental disabilities, as well as economically disadvantaged young adults without disabilities by changing their lives for the better.

All applications who graduate from our food services training program have attended a fifteen-week internship at renowned New York City facilities such as Pace University and The New York Stock Exchange, where they have gained experience in:

- Work readiness skills and customer service
- The use of cutlery
- Food preparation
- Maintaining appropriate food temperatures
- Using scales and other measuring devices
- Maintenance of commercial kitchen equipment in accordance with the regulations of the Board of Health
- Have passed a ServSafe Certification course pertaining to all aspects of food handling procedures as set by the Board of Health

We have been successful in placing applicants in areas including food preparation, utility and dishwashing over the past four years. We keep our employers satisfied by referring excellent applicants who are well matched to the job at hand and by providing superior customer service throughout the entire process.

For excellent pre-trained workers, contact Emily Crocker at 212-634-8652.
